7. REPORT ITEMS

7.1 REPORT - SOUTH SANTA ROSA COMMUNITY BASED TRANSPORTATION PLAN

BACKGROUND: The Metropolitan Transportation Commission (MTC) initiated the Community-Based Transportation Planning (CBTP) program in 2002 to identify and create action plans that address the mobility needs for lower-income communities through collaborative efforts from residents, community organizations, and transportation agencies. Since 2002, more than 30 lower-income communities in all nine Bay Area counties have developed CBTPs, including a previous CBTP for the Roseland area completed in 2007.

Sonoma County Transportation and Climate Authorities (SCTCA) and Santa Rosa City staff collaborated in 2025 to develop a Community-Based Transportation Plan (CBTP) for the South Santa Rosa Avenue Corridor area. The Plan includes sections in both the City of Santa Rosa and in unincorporated Sonoma County. The project team engaged community members in South Santa Rosa and documented the results of the community-based planning process in the CBTP.

RECOMMENDATION: This item is provided for the Board's information and no action will be taken.

7.2 REPORT - SOUTH SANTA ROSA SPECIFIC PLAN LAND USE AND CIRCULATION ALTERNATIVES

BACKGROUND: The Land Use and Circulation Alternatives present three potential approaches to achieve Santa Rosa's vision for the future of the South Santa Rosa Specific Plan Area while taking existing conditions into consideration. Each of the three Alternatives offers a different approach to distributing future housing, recreation areas, economic growth, and circulation improvements presented in detail in the Land Use and Circulation Alternatives Report (Attachment 1). The Alternatives Report is a key step in the Specific Plan process and provides an opportunity for the community to consider how South Santa Rosa will look in the future, where growth will occur, and what areas to preserve. The Alternatives present variations in the location and density of future housing, park and open space improvements. They reflect different ways to achieve the fundamental goals of the General Plan Update, aligning with the community vision and policies outlined in the General Plan.

RECOMMENDATION: This item is provided for the Board's information and no action will be taken.
